

The Transboundary Planning in the European Atlantic (TPEA) project would like to extend an open invitation to participate at its Project Showcase.

The showcase event follows the closing session of the European Maritime Day at Bremen, Germany, on Tuesday 20th May 2014. Please join us from 15:15 in the Focke-Wulf Saal (located in the European Maritime Day venue) to hear of the work undertaken by the TPEA project, which will be followed by a food and drinks reception.

This event will provide a great opportunity to learn about our transboundary maritime spatial planning exercise for the European Atlantic; members of the project team will present:

- Geo-portal technology developed for sharing cross-border data
- Good practice for effective cross-border maritime planning and land-sea interaction
- Stakeholder engagement in transboundary MSP
- Expert comments on TPEA's relevance for future transboundary MSP

We look forward to seeing you in Bremen - please register for the European Maritime Day in order to gain access to the venue - <http://ec.europa.eu/maritimeaffairs/maritimeday/en/home>.

Please note there is no cost for attending the TPEA event. Please circulate notice of this invitation to your colleagues and within your professional networks; we would also appreciate if you could indicate your intention to attend by email to Cathal O'Mahony (c.omahony@ucc.ie); more information at www.tpeamaritime.eu.
